

ABSTRACT

LED arrays and light fixtures are disclosed wherein the discrete LEDs in the array emit light at one of multiple dominant wavelengths corresponding to at least five different colors within the visible spectrum. Systems based on the LED arrays and light fixtures are also disclosed. Additionally, a method of testing human visual perception is also disclosed.